

Markeisha ENSLEY

Soul/R&B • Singer/Songwriter • Jazz

About

International recording artist Markeisha Ensley combines piano-playing flair with smooth soul, her sultry voice melting over soaring melodies. A cross between Alicia Keys and Stevie Wonder, she was awarded the 2011 Abe Olman Scholarship Award for Excellence in Songwriting from the Songwriters Hall of Fame/Songwriters Guild of America, with previous recipients including John Legend. Based in NYC, she has performed all over the world, most recently in Japan, Paris and the Philippines. Combining old school Motown, gospel, jazz and soul music, Markeisha strikes an uplifting groove and graces the stage with a powerful presence. Her most recent EP is entitled Talk to Me.

Reviews

"Listening to the sounds of singer-songwriter Markeisha Ensley is like indulging in a rich, flourless chocolate cake while drinking a well-aged, red wine."

BackPocket Magazine

"Markeisha's soulful and swaying ballads feature doo wop melodies, jazz interludes, and New York City's classic, vocal melting pot conjures up images of smoky clubs and timeless lyrics on her latest release, Talk To Me. The gospel-tinged ballads feature classic rhythms and moods that can only be created by Markeisha."
